jamesteo (61.6.113.24)	Posted - 14/8/2002 16:18:10 I am using Jaring for years. At the promotion counter of TMnet I was convinced to sign up for free 100 hr as backup access. I received the account id and password after 2 months.... ok since its free. When I logon and try to change the password but was not succesful so I leave it. Guess what... bill coming for the usage which I never used. Well I quickly visit the Telekom office to cancel it. Pay whatever outstanding bill though I never use. After 4 months of cancellation I still receive bill from them. Can you count on services like that??? i_jevan (202.187.214.6)	Posted - 15/8/2002 9:36:57 hehehehehe....u r not the only one. all i can say is, its high time msia gives way to other isp to enter msia. that way there will be more isp to choose from and more
C_Fu (203.121.0.9)	Posted - 1/11/2002 15:45:36 arcnet dead oledi right?
dengkil_qq (203.106.249.12)	Posted - 23/11/2002 11:26:20 erm... MaxisNet also suxx la. i mean the connection Speed.Slow when playing BattleNet. now im prefer TmStreamyX which is cheap and fast. but i stay in apartment which is under maxisline. Hope tat MaxisNet can provide same services (streamyX) and same charges rate with TMnet.

NAVIGATING 'THE WASTE LAND'

Forget the obscure allusions, writes Mary Karr, an English professor at Syracuse University. In your heart, you've glimpsed T.S. Eliot's mysterious, desolate landscape, and you shouldn't fear its haunting beauty. (Illustration by Scott McKinnon)
