ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my appreciation to Professor Emeritus Dato' Dr Asmah Haji Omar, former Dean of the Faculty of Languages and Linguistics, University of Malaya, for preliminary discussions and the support for this study.

I would like to thank my supervisor, Professor Elaine Morais, for her meaningful guidance and encouragement. Her kind concern took me through the trying period I faced during the course of the study. I also wish to thank Dr Tan Soon Hock for the initial supervision at the early phase of the research.

Grateful acknowledgement is made to Bahagian Latihan dan Pembangunan Staf and Pusat Bahasa, Universiti Teknologi, MARA, for granting me one year of study leave to enable me to concentrate on my thesis.

Thanks are due to the four CEOs, their executive secretaries and the specialist informants of the various companies in the study. I am especially grateful to the CEOs for allowing me access to their office premises.

I owe much to my immediate family members and to my concerned friends for their unflinching support. I am also grateful to my former colleague, Abdul Rahim Mat Yassin for encouraging me to register for the Ph.D more than a decade ago. In addition, he has always assisted me in the translation of documents.

I am very grateful to Judy Lam, formerly an executive secretary in a multinational company, for her excellent secretarial services, which clearly embodied the highest qualities of an executive secretary.

ABSTRACT

This is a study on genre as a social process in relation to the role of the executive secretary in the business environment. The study examines the way in which linguistics, drawn into the realm of the social sciences, serves as a 'tool' for the analysis of the role of the executive secretary in a business organization.

The study provides evidence on how language, emerging from the context and linguistic symbols, shapes persons and behaviour in the work environment of the executive secretary. The focus is on talk interactions of the executive secretary in naturally occurring circumstances. The main talk interactions are with the head of the organization and the company staff. In addition, there are the 'outsiders' of the organization who are considered as external contacts.

The qualitative analysis enables a holistic interpretation of language use in the work place. The data is drawn from four companies. The methods employed for data collection are face-to-face interviews, periods of observation at the research site, field notes and audio-recordings. The data provides for the ethnographic descriptions. Effort has been made to use methods of triangulation to address the issue of the validity of the data.

The analysis of the genres that evolved in the talk interactions provides substantial evidence that the executive secretary, aligned with the head of the organization, plays a significant role in the social processes of the business organization.

ABSTRACT

Kajian ini adalah kajian genre yang berkaitan dengan proses social yang melibatkan peranan setiausaha eksekutif di persekitaran organisasi perniagaan.

Kajian ini meneliti hubung kait linguistik dengan sains social yang wujud sebagai satu mekanisme, untuk menganalisis peranan setiausaha eksekutif dalam sebuah organisasi perniagaan.

Kajian ini membuktikan bagaimana bahasa menyepadukan konteks dan symbol linguistik dalam membentuk diri individu dan tingkah lakunya dalam persekitaran kerja sebagai seorang setiausaha eksekutif.

Tumpuan kajian ini kepada interaksi perbualan setiausaha eksekutif dalam suasana yang natural. Perbualan interaksi yang penting ialah dengan ketua-ketua eksekutif organisasi dan perkerja-perkerja syarikat. Sebagai tambahan terdapat juga interaksi dengan individu-individu di luar organisasi yang terlibat yang dianggap sebagai kontek di luar organisasi.

Analisis kualitatif ini membolehkan satu pertafsiran yang menyeluruh bagi bahasa yang digunakan di tempat kerja. Data ini diperolehi daripada empat buah syarikat. Kaedah bersemuka, pemerhatian dilokasi kajian, catatan catatan semasa dilokasi kajian, dan rakaman audio. Data yang di kumpul mebolehkan satu huraian ethnografik dibuat. Beberapa usaha telah dilakukan untuk menggunakan kaedah 'triangulation' bagi menentukan kesahan data.

Analisis genre yang terlibat dalam interaksi perbualan telah memberikan bukti yang kukuh bahawa setiausaha eksekutif, sebagai seorang pekerja yang rapat dengan ketua organisasi, memainkan peranan yang penting melalui proses-proses social dalam organisasi perniagaan.
