ABSTRACT

This project is to study dynamic modeling of cell flow for an ATM network using Simulink tools. The ATM network consists of a maximum of four nodes configured into single hop, multi hop, ring, mesh and star topology. The dynamic simulation will examining the cell flow (bit per second), cell dropped cell received and link utilization for above topology.