Factors Contributing Toward Expatriate Failure In Malaysian Firms

Awang Zulkifli Bin Ahmad

Bachelor of Business Administration (Human Resource Management) University of Technology MARA Shah Alam Selangor. 1994

Submitted to the Graduate School of Business Faculty of Business and Accountancy University of Malaya, in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the Degree of Master of Business Administration

March 2005
ABSTRACT

Expatriate management has become the major focus of HR managers in multinational firms. Expatriation is commonly used as a means by which organizations can transfer knowledge and skills from one location to another. The rapid development on globalization trends of the Malaysia firms add more challenges to the Global HR Manager as these firms expected business success on their international ventures. A failure of their expatriates will definitely threaten their international business success.

The major areas of study in this paper relate to: (1) the definition of expatriate failure and; (2) the predominant factors contributing to expatriate failure. Results from twenty-three participants found that although expatriate failure is defined in most literature as premature return, this definition is misleading and insufficient. In relation to the predominant factors for expatriate failure, the personal maturity factor was found to be important in minimizing expatriate failure. Furthermore, the lack of management skill, language and communication skill that relate to the inability to adapt the new environment was believed to be an important contributor of expatriate failure, consistent with previous studies. The study concludes that the unwillingness of contemporary literature to take into account other measures of expatriate failure will lead to the accumulation of information that is of limited relevance to practitioners and expatriates alike. In addition, given that organizations now have more detailed information about the obstacles that expatriate face, they should take a more proactive approach in assisting the expatriates overcome their adjustment difficulties.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost I would like to thank God for his blessing that make me able to complete this project.

I would like also to thank my supervisor, Dr. Nazari Ismail for the immense amount of support and guidance. You made what seemed to be an impossible task accomplishable. Many thanks.

Acknowledgement also needs to be given to all respondents who participated in the study. Thank you for sharing your time and experiences.

Finally, I would like to thank all my family, especially my wife, my children, my sisters and friends who have been very supportive. Without your tolerance and understanding this would not have been possible. Thank you.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Title Page ............................................................ i
Abstract ............................................................. ii
Acknowledgement .................................................. iii
Contents Page ....................................................... iv
List of Tables ....................................................... vi

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

1.1 Objectives of the Study ....................................... 2
1.2 Significance of The Study .................................... 3
1.3 Research Questions .......................................... 4
1.4 Scope of The Study .......................................... 6
1.5 Limitations of The Study ...................................... 7
1.6 Organizations of Chapter .................................... 8

CHAPTER 2: LITERATURE REVIEW

2.1 Definition of Expatriate ....................................... 11
2.2 Staffing Policies .............................................. 12
2.3 Expatriate Transfer (Career) Cycle ......................... 14
2.4 Definition of Expatriate Failure ............................ 18
2.5 Factors Contributing To Expatriate Failure ............... 22

CHAPTER 3: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

3.1 Research Methodology ......................................... 41
Data Collection
Respondents
Questionnaire Design
How Propositions Were Tested

CHAPTER 4: RESEARCH RESULTS

Definition of Expatriate Failure
Factors Contributing To Expatriate Failure

CHAPTER 5: CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Conclusions of The Study
Future Research Directions
Implications of The Study

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDICES

3RD PAGE
LIST OF TABLES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Table 2.1: Tung's (1987) Main Reasons for Expatriate Failure (Tung 1987)</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 3.1: Summary of Participants</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 3.2: Questions Used to Test Propositions</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.1: Demographic Profile of the Respondents</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.2: Results Summary</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.3: Main Factors Contribute to Expatriate Failure</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>