

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis has been an arduous task to complete and it would not come to fruition had it not been for the help and involvement of so many individuals and groups. To all of them I owe my heartfelt gratitude. I would like to thank especially Dr. Faizul Azli Mohd Rahim, my PhD programme supervisor, for his unrelenting support, professional guidance and assistance during the duration of the programme.

My appreciation also goes to the survey participants and company managers involved in survey instrument validation, questionnaire completion and interview participation. I would also like to thank the editor, Mr Abu Bakar Ahmad, for his help in perusing the write-up, his correction of the grammar used and his advice on the structure of the dissertation; my good friends, Dr Ali Alshawi, Dr Abdul Aziz Abdullah, Dr Nurshuhada Zainon, Dr Nurmadiyah Abdul Aziz, Dr Abdul Mutalib Mohd Beksin and Dr Bawa Chafe Abdullahi, for sharing their views on the research process and for cheering me up and standing by me through good and bad times; the Ministry of Higher Education (MOHE) for granting me a scholarship and the Department of Polytechnic Education for providing me the opportunity to pursue my educational goal.

Last but not least, my deepest gratitude and love is due to the most important people in my life. They are my late father and mother, my wife Wan Nor Nini Harzelin Wan Mustar, and my children (Raudhah Hasanah, Riyadh Haziq, Raudhah Hidanah, and Raudhah Hasya). Their love, encouragement, patience and support gave me the strength to endure this challenging journey of acquiring a PhD.
