

THE POLITICS AND DIPLOMACY OF SOUTH- SOUTH COOPERATION : THE ROLE OF MALAYSIA, NIGERIA AND
THE POST-APARTHEID SOUTH AFRICA

Madu Magnus Emeka

A Thesis Submitted for the Degree of Master of Arts (International Relations)

in the

Department of History

Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences

University of Malaya

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

January 2001

Perpustakaan Universiti Malaya

A510475453

Dimikrofiskan pada... 15.02.2002
No. Mikrofis... 16259
Jumlah Mikrofis... 4
HANSIAH BT. MOHAMAD ZAHAF
UNIT REPROGRAFI
PERPUSTAKAAN UTA
UNIVERSITI MALAYA

UPR

This work is dedicated to all Marginalized and Suppressed
People of the World.

POLITIK DAN DIPLOMASI KERJASAMA SELATAN-SELATAN: PERANAN
MALAYSIA, NIGERIA, DAN PASCA-APARTHEID AFRIKA SELATAN

ABSTRAK

Kemunculan bilangan besar negara-negara berdaulat dalam zaman pasca Perang Dunia kedua melahirkan kategori baru isu, persepsi, dan perasaan mengenai teori dan pendekatan bagi menangani masalah perhubungan antarabangsa. Selepas mencapai kebebasan, negara-negara baru menginsaf bahawa orde ekonomi yang terwujud langsung tidak saksama, malah merugikan kepentingan mereka. Layanan yang kurang memuaskan dialami mereka daripada negara maju dalam intraksi antarabangsa mereka melalui perhubungan yang berciri tidak saksama. Tambahan pula, mereka didominasi dari segi politik, keselamatan, informasi, budaya dan pendidikan—kesemuanya yang memberi impak langsung dan tidak langsung ke atas negara membangun. Oleh kerana negara maju memiliki kuasa dominan dalam politik dunia, mereka berkemampuan memanipulasi lingkungan lain seperti hak kemanusiaan, hak pekerja dan alamsekitar agar menghalang pertumbuhan ekonomi berberapa masyarakat bukan barat yang berpotensi mencabar kedominan mereka.

Ekoran daripada keadaan ini, negara-negara baru berpendapat bahawa suatu orde baru dunia yang lebih saksama dan rasional harus diwujudkan. Untuk mendekati matlamat mulia ini, negara membangun mengurus diplomasi bersama yang diasalkan daripada inisiatif yang diambil oleh sesetengah pemimpin negara baru merdeka sejak 1950an, dan khasnya yang diambil oleh pemimpin Afro-Asia seperti Nehru(India), Sukarno(Indonesia), Tito(Yugoslavia), dan Nkrumah(Ghana). Inisiatif ini berhasil dalam bentuk mesyuarat pertama di Bandung, Indonesia pada 1955, yang meletakkan batu asas bagi kelahiran Negara-Negara Berkecuali. pada 1961 di Yugoslavi di bawah pimpinan Josip Tito. Terbentuknya tiga tahun kemudian Kumpulan 77(G77), dan akhirnya G15 di bawah pimpinan Mahathir Mohamad pada 1990 melambangkan usaha Negara-negara Membangun untuk mengguna strategi baru demi menguasai Selatan. Sejak usaha tersebut, suatu siri langkah diplomatik berterusan di peringkat sub-rantau, peringkat rantau mahupun antarabangsa untuk mengatasi perhubungan socio-ekonomi dan politik antara negara-negara maju dan negara-negara membangun dengan tujuan mewujudkan suatau orde antarabangsa yang lebih adil dan saksama. Walaupun langkah-langkah diplomatik tersebut telah di dicuba oleh Selatan untuk memastikan orde antarabangsa yang saksama, tetapi kemiskinan ketara dan polisi kurang berkesan menjejaskan potensi individu di kebanyakan masyarakat dunai mmebangan. Dalam kebanyakan kes, segmen penduduk yang termiskin belum lagi memperolehi manfaat daripada pertumbuhan ekonomi. Kemiskinan dan ketidakadilan menyumbang kepada ketidakstabilan politik di kebanyakan negara membangun, manakala konflik kekerasan merosakkan kehidupan mereka, dan asas bagi perdamaian kekal dan keselamatan masih menjadi lembab. Sambil usaha dijalankan untuk membaiki kedudukan, negara-negara maju masih kurang memperlihatkan komitmen teguh kepada Dialog Utara-Selatan. Sebaliknya, dasar-dasar dan keputusan utama dibuat untuk membela kepentingan mereka demi mempertahankan status quo.

Justeru itu, tesis ini berfokus kepada pendekatan-pendekatan alternatif yang diambil oleh Negara-Negara Membangun untuk membaiki masalah dalam kerangka

Kerjasama Selatan-Selatan, berdikari, dan mengurangkan kebergantungan ke atas Negara-negara Maju. Khususnya, karya ini mengkaji secara kritis peranan tiga Negara Selatan, iaitu Malaysia, Nigeria, dan Afrika Selatan Pasca-Apartheid dari segi merekabentuk sebuah kerangka dan mencipta kaedah-kaedah baru bagi memungkinkan Kerjasama Selatan-Selatan. Dalam tahun-tahun terkini, kerjasama Selatan-Selatan membuktikan potensi besar menerusi perkongsian pengalaman negara-negara di benua Asia dengan benua Afrika. Faedah potensi kepada Afrika hasil kerjasam Asia-Afrika dan intra-Afrika boelh ditingkatkan lagi melalui memperkukuhkan kemampuan Afrika mempelajari pengalaman pembangunan daripada rantau lain, dan melalui menubuhkan mekanisme berkesan bagi memajukan kerjasama Selatan-Selatan—seperti Dialog Antarabangsa Langkawi(oleh Malaysia), dan Rancangan Tindakan Lagos(oleh Nigeria). Langkah-langkah bagi menyelesaikan konflik di benua Afrika, seperti yang dimajukan oleh Afrika Selatan Baru pimpinan Mandela, melambangkan usaha-usaha terkini untuk memajukan kestabilan dan keamanan di Selatan. Walau bagaimanapun, adalah diakui bahawa kebanyakan masalah yang dihadapi oleh Selatan berhasil daripada unsur-unsur domestik, dan hanya boleh diselesaikan dengan wujudnya kepimpinan yang mempunyai komitmen teguh, dan yang bersedia mengambil langkah-langkah perlu bagi menangani masalah. Dengan kaedah ini, Utara pun boleh memainkan peranan tambahan dari segi mengadakan kerjasama dan perkongsian yang bermakna melalui kerangka pergantungan bersama Utara-Selatan.

MADU MAGNUS EMEKA
Calon M.A.(Hubungan Antarabangsa)
Jabatan Sejarah, Universiti Malaya
Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia
Januari 2001

THE POLITICS AND DIPLOMACY OF SOUTH-SOUTH COOPERATION:
THE ROLE OF MALAYSIA, NIGERIA, AND THE POST-APARTHEID SOUTH
AFRICA

ABSTRACT

The emergence of a large number of sovereign states in the post-second world war period generated a new class of issues, perceptions, and feelings as well as theories and approaches of handling the problem of inter-relationships among countries. After the independence of the new states they realised that the existing economic order was highly unequal and detrimental to their interests. They receive unfavourable and unjust treatment from the developed nations in the course of international interactions through non-reciprocal economic relationships, as well as domination in political, security, information, culture and educational aspects--all of which have direct and indirect impact upon the developing nations. Due to the overwhelming power of the developed nations in global politics, they are able to manipulate other spheres connected with human rights, workers rights and environment to thwart the economic growth of certain non-western societies that may have the potential to challenge their dominance.

Consequently, the new nations felt that a new world order should be fostered which is more equitable and rational. To approach this noble objective, the developing nations adopted collective diplomacy, originated from the initiatives taken by some leaders of the newly independent countries from 1950s and in particular from Afro-Asian national leaders such as Nehru of India, Surkano of Indonesia, Tito of Yugoslavia and Nkrumah of Ghana. This initiative materialized in the first meeting at Bandung,

Indonesia in 1955 which laid the foundation for the birth of the Non-Aligned Movement in 1961 in Yugoslavia under the leadership of Josip Tito. The formation three years later of the Group of 77(G77) and finally the G15 under the leadership of Mahathir Mohamad in 1990 marked the efforts of the Developing Countries in adopting new strategies for empowerment of the South. Since then, a series of diplomatic moves have been going on both at sub-regional, regional, and international level, to redress the inequitable socio-economic and political relationship between the developed and developing nations, with the aim of evolving a new international order that is more just and equitable. In spite of all the diplomatic moves already initiated by the South to ensure an equitable international order, widespread poverty and inadequate policies stunt individual potentials in a sizeable number of countries. In most cases, the poorest segment of the population are yet to benefit from overall economic growth. Poverty and inequality are contributing to political instability in most developing nations, while violent conflicts ravage the lives of many, and the foundation for durable peace and security remain fragile. While efforts are made to reverse the situation, the developed nations only pay lip service to North-South Dialogue. Instead, the main policies and decisions are made in their own interest to maintain the status quo.

This thesis, therefore, focuses on alternative approaches taken by the Developing Countries to redress existing grievances in the form of South-South Cooperation, self-reliance and a reduction of dependence on the developed nations. Specifically, this work critically examines the role of three South Nations namely, Malaysia, Nigeria, and the Post-Apartheid South Africa in designing a framework, and creating new modalities for South-South Cooperation. In recent years, South –South cooperation has demonstrated a great potential through the sharing of Asian experiences with African countries. The potential benefits to Africa of Asian-African and intra-African cooperation could be captured further by strengthening African capacity to learn and apply lessons from other regions' development experiences, and by establishing effective mechanisms that promote South-South cooperation in various forms--such as the Langkawi International Dialogue (by Malaysia), and the Lagos Plan of Action (by Nigeria). Conflict resolution efforts in the African continent, such as those undertaken by Mandela's New South Africa, symbolize more recent measures to promote peace and stability in the South.

Nevertheless, it is admitted that many of the problems faced by the South are largely internally generated, and can only be resolved by committed national leaderships who are prepared to genuinely undertake the needed measures to redress the problem. In this way, even the North can play a supplementary role in fostering more meaningful cooperation through the framework of North-South inter-dependence.

MADU MAGNUS EMEKA
M.A. Candidate(International Relations)
Department of History, University of Malaya
Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia
January 2001

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

For any student interested in International relations, it is a privilege to pass through as I have done, the Department of History, University of Malaya. In this department, the intellectual disposition of Prof. Dr. K. S. Nathan, Professor of International Relations, manifesting in his person and work is in fact so pervasive that nobody should be surprised that I consider myself fortunate as one of his students. I owe an immeasurable gratitude to him.

This work is my Master's Thesis, for which Prof. Dr. K. S. Nathan acted as the supervisor and in the process, I greatly benefited from his guidance and advice. Other members of the department to whom I am most indebted are: my former Head of Department, Prof. Dato' Mohd. Yusoff Hashim, as well as all the members and staff of the Department of History, University of Malaya.

I owe a special debt to the management and staff of Institute of Postgraduate Studies and Research of the University of Malaya, as well as the staff and students of the Faculty of Arts and Social Science, University of Malaya for all cooperation they rendered to me.

My greatest debt of gratitude is to my mother and brothers: Madu Cordelia , Madu Cyprain, Madu Eugene, Julius, Bosco and Jovita. Several people helped directly or indirectly in making this work a reality and I would like to acknowledge their assistance. For his scrupulous proof reading of the work, I thank Ohazuruike Maximus.

The insights provided by my senior colleagues in this research: Ekechukwu Boniface and Onwuka Kevin, all of University Putra Malaysia (UPM) are unquantifiable that I cannot thank them enough. Very special thanks are due to my friends: Chris Nwachukwu, Nwaebo Success, Philip and Clement, all of Malaysian International Christian Fellowship. Others are Godspower Okoye, Sanctus Agochukwu, Helina Ocansey, Prince Francis, Mrs. Nnenna M. Orluigwe, all of African Winners Chapel, Revival City Street Church in Kuala Lumpur. In addition, this thesis benefited greatly from the data and assistance provided by the Nigerian and South African High Commissions as well as the British Council.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my beloved wife Mrs. Madu Bridjette (Queen) for her support and encouragement throughout the period of this work, and for typing the manuscript.

Madu Magnus Emeka
(International Relations)
Department of History
University of Malaya
Kuala Lumpur
Malaysia
JANUARY 2001

CONTENTS

	Page
Abstract	i
(Bahasa Melayu)
(English)	iv
Acknowledgement	vii
Contents	ix
Explanation of Terms Used	xiv
List of Abbreviations	xvi
List of Appendices	xxi
Chapter One: INTRODUCTION
1.1 Statement of the Problem	1
1.2 Meaning and Origins of the Study	3
1.3 Purpose and Aims of the Study	8
1.4 Scope and Limitations	11
1.5 Research Methodology and Sources	14
1.6 Theoretical Framework	17
1.7 Review of Related Literature	20
Chapter Two: THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF SOUTH-SOUTH COOPERATION
2.1 The Structure of the International System	34
2.2 North–South Relations	38
2.3 Pattern of North–South Economic Relations	42

2.4 The New International Economic Order (NIEO)	51
2.5 The Bandung Conference	55
2.6 The Unchanged Situation	57
2.7 The Next Line of Action	58
2.8 Conclusion	62

Chapter Three: SOUTH–SOUTH COOPERATION:
GENESIS AND RATIONALE

3.1 Pan-Africanism	68
3.2 Latin American Free Trade Association(LAFTA)	70
3.3 Causes of the Underdevelopment of the South	71
3.4 Low R&D in LDCs and Mechanisms of Exploitation	72
3.5 Population Dilemma	74
3.6 Ongoing Tragedy	79
3.7 The Expectations and Demands of the South from the North	81
3.8 The Politics of Diplomacy	88
3.9 South's Instrument of Diplomacy	93
3.10 The Call for Reform	96
3.11 Self-Reliance	97
3.12 The Challenges Faced by the South	97
3.13 The Way Forward	98
3.14 Conclusion	102

Chapter Four: MALAYSIA AND THE SOUTH

4.1 Malaysia's Foreign Policy	108
4.2 Malaysia and ASEAN	110
4.3 Malaysia and Islamic Countries	114
4.3.1 Malaysia and the Group of Eight Islamic Developing Countries(D8)	115
4.4 Malaysia and Africa	116
4.5 Malaysia's Foreign Policy Orientation Towards the South	118
4.6 Malaysia and the G15	119
4.7 Malaysia and South-South Economic Cooperation	120
4.8 Malaysia and the Commonwealth	125
4.9 Malaysia and the United Nations	127
4.10 Malaysia and APEC	129
4.11 Malaysia and Smart partnership/Langkawi Dialogues	131
4.12 Criticisms of Malaysia's Practice of South-South Cooperation	134
4.13 Malaysia's Advantages in Promoting South-South Cooperation	138
4.14 Challenges Faced by Malaysia as a South Nation	139
4.15 Conclusion: The Way Forward for Malaysia as a South Nation	141
 Chapter Five: NIGERIA AND THE SOUTH
5.1 Introduction: Nigeria's Strategic Position and National Interest	149
5.2 Nigeria and Its Immediate Neighbours: ECOWAS	153
5.3 Nigeria and Southern Africa.	158
5.4 Nigeria's Use of the United Nations Against Apartheid	160
5.5 Nigeria and the Post-Apartheid Southern Africa	163

5.6 Nigeria and East/North Africa	164
5.7 Nigeria's Extra-African Multilateral Relations	165
5.8 Nigeria and the Organisation of African Unity (OAU)	166
5.9 Nigerian Government's Assistance to African Refugees	171
5.10 Nigeria's Mediatory Role in African Conflicts	173
5.11 Nigeria and Multilateral Diplomacy	177
5.12 Challenges	187
5.13 Prospects	188
5.14 Conclusion	188

Chapter Six: POST-APARTHEID SOUTH AFRICA AND THE SOUTH

6.1 Foreign Policy	195
6.2 The Post-Apartheid South Africa and Africa	196
6.3 The New South Africa and OAU	197
6.4 Prevention, Management and Resolution of Conflict	198
6.5 Funding of the OAU	199
6.6 The New South Africa: Sub-Regional Approach	200
6.7 Botswana, Lesotho, and Swaziland	200
6.8 Development Strategy	201
6.9 The New South Africa and SADC	204
6.10 Present State of Relations	205
6.11 Funding of the SADC	206
6.12 Expected Development	207

6.13 Trade with Southern Africa	207
6.14 Employment	209
6.15 Power and Water	210
6.16 Agriculture	211
6.17 Financial Affairs	211
6.18 Science and Technology	212
6.19 Health Services	212
6.20 The Post-Apartheid South Africa and International Organizations	213
6.21 Mandela's Role in Promoting South-South Cooperation	214
6.22 South Africa's Frontline Role in South-South Cooperation	217
6.23 Challenges Facing the Post-Apartheid South Africa	218
6.24 The Road Ahead	220

Chapter Seven: SUMMARY, RECOMMENDATIONS AND CONCLUSION

7.1 Summary	225
7.2 Recommendations	227
7.2.1 On South-South Cooperation	229
7.3 Conclusion	235
7.3.1 An Alternative but Complementary Paradigm of South-South Cooperation	238
Appendix	247
Bibliography	264

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED

Due to changes in the names of two of the three countries under study, the usage of certain terms representing the same nation under different regimes as well as the utilisation of some recently coined words, it became necessary to make a brief explanation to make the work more explicit.

- (1) The Post-Apartheid South Africa: This refers to the same South Africa that has been liberated from the racist or apartheid regime and achieved black majority rule since April 1994. Is also referred to as the New South Africa.
- (2) The terms “Malaya” and “Malaysia” are use alternatively, in this work, with “Malaya” referring to pre-independent peninsular Malaysia while “Malaysia” will be used for the post-1963 period with the incorporation of Sabah, Sarawak and Singapore (1963 – 1965).
- (3) North-South: This is a term used to categorize the world into developed or advanced and underdeveloped or developing nations. The North comprises the highly industrialized nations of the world such as the United States of America, Britain, France, Italy, Canada, Japan etc. characterised by highly technological advancement, affluence, strong and resilient economies, controllers of their destinies, and developed infrastructures that make\ life easy and comfortable.

(4) The South: This term encompasses the underdeveloped or developing nations of the world, characterised by low technological advancement, low standard of living, poverty, weak and defenceless economy, very vulnerable to external factors, and lacking in functional sovereignty.

(5) South-South Cooperation: This concept denotes a movement aimed at promoting solidarity among the Developing Countries. It is aimed at empowering the South by collectively working to reduce poverty and underdevelopment, and to secure a better life for the citizens of the developing nations as well as the achievement of self-reliance.

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

ACP	African Caribbean and Pacific Group of Countries
ADB	African Development Bank
AFTA	ASEAN Free Trade Area
ALADI	Latin American Integration Association
AMDA	Anglo-Malaysian Defence and Mutual Assistance Agreement
ASEAN	Association of Southeast Asian Nations
ASTRO	International Association of States Trading Organisation for Developing Countries
BLADEX	Latin American Export Bank
BPA	Bilateral Payments Arrangement
CACM	Central American Common Market
CARICOM	Caribbean Community
CCFF	Compensatory and Contingency Financing Facility
CEAO	West African Economic Community
CEEAC	Economic Community of Central African States
CFF	Compensatory Financing Facility
CGIAR	Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research
CHOGM	Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting
CPTM	Commonwealth Partnership for Technology Management
DCPA	Developing Countries Payment Arrangement
EAEG	East Asia Economic Grouping
EC	European Community

ECDC	Economic Cooperation among Developing Countries
ECOWAS	Economic Community of West African States
ECOMOG	Economic Community of West African Monitoring Group
FAO	Food and Agriculture Organization
FPDA	Five Power Defence Arrangement
GBC	General Border Committee
GDP	Gross Domestic Product
GNP	Gross National Product
GSTP	Global System of Trade Preferences
IBRD	International Bank for Reconstruction and Development(World Bank)
IDA	International Development Association
IDB	Inter-American Development Bank
IFAD	International Fund for Agricultural Development
IMF	International Monetary Fund
ITC	International Trade Centre
ITO	International Trade Organisation
LAFTA	Latin American Free Trade Association
MAJDP	Malaysia-Australia Joint Defence Programme
MOU	Memorandum of Understanding
NEFOS	New Emerging Forces
NGO	Non-Governmental Organization
OAU	Organization of African Unity
ODA	Official Development Assistance

OECD	Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development
OLDEFOS	Old Established Forces
OPEC	Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries
PTA	Preferential Trade Area
R&D	Research and Development
SAARC	South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation
SADCC	South African Development Co-ordination Conference
SEATO	Southeast Asia Treaty Organization
SITTDEC	South Investment Trade and Technology Data Exchange Centre
TCDC	Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries
UNCTAD	United Nations Conference on Trade and Development
UNDP	United Nations Development Programme
UNESCO	United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization
UNGA	United Nations General Assembly
UNICEF	United Nations Children's Emergency Fund
UNIDO	United Nations Industrial Development Organization
ZOPFAN	Zone of Peace, Freedom and Neutrality

LIST OF APPENDICES

Page

APPENDIX ONE:	Chronology of Events of Non-Aligned Movement (NAM) Summit Conferences	246
APPENDIX TWO:	Non-Aligned Movement(NAM) Member States, 1998	251
APPENDIX THREE:	Joint Communiqué by the G15 Heads of Government, June 1990	253
APPENDIX FOUR:	Malaysian Technical Cooperation Programme(MTCP): List of Participating Countries	254
APPENDIX FIVE:	Economic Cooperation, Development, and Integration: Nigerian Trust Fund Sponsored Projects in Africa	257
APPENDIX SIX:	Treaties and Agreements Signed, Acceded to, or Ratified by the Post-Apartheid South Africa in 1995	260