

REFERENCES

Ash Robert and Booth A. (Ed.) (2001). The Economies of Asia 1950 – 1998: Critical Perspectives on the World Economy, Volume II, London and New York: Routledge.

Baker, W. Richard, Kristiadi J., and Ramage E.D. (1999). Indonesia: The Challenge of Change, KIKTL Press – The Netherlands, Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies.

Bank Indonesia, Bank Indonesia – Annual Report

Drysdale P. (2000). Reform and Recovery in East Asian: The Role of the State and Economy Enterprises, London and New York: Routledge.

Hill Hall (1994). Indonesia's: New Order, Malaysia: SRM Production Services Sdn Bhd.

IMF, Financial Statistics – Annual Report

Joseph Charles and Gunawan Anton (2000). Monetary Policy and Inflation Targeting in Emerging Economies, Jakarta, Bank Indonesia.

Khazzoom J.Daniel (1966). The Currency Ratio in Developing Countries, New York: Frederic A. Praeger, Publishers.

Kunt, D.A. and Detragiache E. (1998). Financial Liberalization and Financial Fragility, IMF Staff Papers, 83.

Lloyd Grayson and Smith S. (Ed.). (2001). Indonesia Today: Challenges of History, Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies.

Masuyama, Vendenbrik, Yue S.C. (1999). East Asia's Financial System: Evolution and Crisis, Singapore: ISEAS Institute of Southeast Asian Studies.

McLeod H.Ross (1995). Indonesia Assessment 1994: Finance as a Key Sector in Indonesia's Development, Research School of Pacific and Asian Studies, Australia Institute of Southeast Asian Studies.

Nasution Anwar (1994). Reformasi of the Financial Sector in Indonesia, 1983-1991, The Indonesian Quarterly, XXI (3): 284-309.

Pangestu M. (1994). The Role of The State and Economic Development in Indonesia, The Indonesian Quarterly, XXI (3): 254-261.

Prawiro Radius (1998). Indonesia's Struggle for Economic Development, Kuala Lumpur: Oxford University Press.

Rao Bhanaji (2001) East Asian Economies: The Miracle, A Crisis and The Future, McGraw-Hill book Co. Singapore.

Sahcamarga Savaraj (1997). A Study of the Determinants of the Money Supply in Thailand, Ph.D. Thesis, Texas: University A&M Texas.

SEACEN, Financial Statistics – Annual Report

Zahid Shahid N. (Ed.) (1995). Financial Sector Development in Asia, Philippines: Asian Development Bank.